CEASE-FIRE IN KOREA TO BE SOUGHT

OUR ALLIES 'NEED' $19 BILLION WORTH

Despite Sounds Of Peace, Huge Arms Program Urged

WASHINGTON, June 29—Defense Secretary Marshall disclosed today that despite probability of peace soon in Korea, the United States plans to spend at least $19 billion during the next three years for foreign military aid.

Marshall told the House Foreign Affairs Committee that the requirement for funds for the foreign military assistance program will be "at least the same level" during the 1953 and 1954 fiscal years as President Truman's request for the next 12-month period.

The President has asked Congress to authorize $6.3 billion for the 1952 fiscal year which begins July 1. In addition, he also requested another $2.2 billion for further economic aid.

Marshall lashed out also at some of the Western European nations. He charged, without citing them by name, that "some, for one reason or another, have not seemed to do all that they could do."

The cabinet official stated that the U. S. "has taken more positive steps to meet the dangers of our times than have the governments of Europe."

Marshall said he realized that European nations have their problems, but, he added "so do we."

The cabinet official revealed that we have already furnished our Western allies with a monumental amount of armaments.

As listed by Marshall, they include: More than 4,300 tanks and combat vehicles, 2,750 major artillery pieces, 18,000 general purpose vehicles, 850 aircraft, and more than 175 naval vessels and small craft.

In addition, more than $1 billion worth of small arms, mortars, recoilless rifles, bazookas, electronic equipment and millions of pounds of ammunition have been shipped abroad.

Marshall stated that exclusive of aircraft and naval vessels delivered under their own power, the war materiel shipped abroad amounted to more than 1.4 million tons of equipment.

In addition, more than 12,000 foreign students have been trained in the U. S. under the military assistance program.

Marshall revealed that the arrival of American armaments in Indo-China less than two weeks before a crucial battle apparently saved Hanoi, the capital of Tonkin, from capture by Communist Viet-Minh troops.

Cease-Fire Failing To Slow Fight

Koreans Claim No Halt Expected

TOKYO, June 30—(Saturday)—Communist resistance in Korea remained fierce today and the enemy launched a propaganda offensive despite indications that arrangements for cease-fire negotiations were progressing.

A Washington announcement that Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway has been authorized to conduct cease-fire negotiations in the field with Communist commanders was made public in Tokyo just before 1 a. m. There was no immediate official comment.

Two hours earlier, Ridgway was reported conferring with Ambassador William Seabald, his chief diplomatic adviser, who had just returned from an all-day mystery trip, destination and purpose of which was not announced.

It was believed Seabald's trip was to Korea, but tight-lipped military and diplomatic spokesmen declined all comment.

There were these other fast-breaking developments:

1. THE NORTH Korean Communist radio at Pyongyang broadcast the text of a note from Foreign Minister Pak Hong Yong to the United Nations demanding that American and South Korean army leaders be punished as "war criminals." Other Red broadcasts said the Communists would "fight until the last drop of blood."

2. An Eighth Army communiqué reported "light enemy contact" along the Korea front. Field dispatches said, however, that in some areas heavy fighting was underway with one hill on the west-central front changing hands six times Friday. At the end of the day, Red troops were still in possession of the strong point west of Yonchon despite heavy artillery and air strikes.

3. The South Korean legislature, unanimously opposing a cease-fire at the 38th Parallel, called for complete political and territorial unification of all Korea under the government of President Syngman Rhee.

The Rok legislature and the North Korean broadcast placed the two rival Korean governments as far apart as ever on all disputed questions.

The Reds meanwhile counter-attacked at various points along the front and continued to build up their strength in four major areas of North Korea. Airforce pilots reported that Communist vehicles in these areas continued to move southward after dark nightly.

THE COMMUNIST radio in Pyongyang, capital of North Korea, continued to talk war rather than peace. The radio quoted a "high officer" as saying:

"We will fight until the last drop of blood and until the American imperialist army and their puppets are completely annihilated."

Communist forces, dug in on both sides of the Kumsong-Kumsong road northeast of the enemy's crushed "iron triangle," hurled stiff attacks into the UN lines Thursday night. The attacks were a continuation of small but furious attacks launched before dawn Thursday. These were beaten back with no loss of ground by the Allied soldiers.

Further east, in the vicinity of Yanggu, where the Reds had stiffly resisted Eighth Army forces for two days, Communist opposition was reported diminishing.

However, Allied soldiers in the area were limited to gains of 1,000 to 1,500 yards.

Roasting Ears Coming Up!

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Thomas of Circleville Route 2 Friday are tasting the first of the 1951 sweet-corn crop in Pickaway County.

Thomas went into his 10-acre field of early bantam sweetcorn Friday and picked about two dozen ears for the table.

He reported he probably will be ready to take off the crop about the first of next week. The field was planted April 18.

U.S. Plan Eases Tension In Iranian Oil Dispute

TEHRAN, June 29—The tense situation arising from nationalization of the Anglo-Iranian Oil Co. appeared eased today when the U. S. envoy to Tehran persuaded the government to abandon an "anti-sabotage" law endangering the lives of 2,000 British employees.

U. S. Ambassador Henry F. Grady announced that Premier Mohammed Mossadegh agreed to drop the proposed legislation. The American envoy is interceding with the British government for the return to work of the 2,000 technicians who walked off their jobs yesterday.

The proposed law would have provided penalties up to death for any interference with nationalization.

Circleville Air Club Is Formed At Meeting Here

About 30 aviation enthusiasts Thursday night laid the groundwork for a new flying club in Circleville.

The club, which evolved out of a futile effort to form a Civil Air Patrol squadron here, will be headed during the next year by Don Collins, farmer of the Ashville community.

Dr. Richard Samuel, Circleville dentist, had been head of the group during its effort to become linked with the state and federal CAP organizations. But top echelon CAP assistance is not foreseen.

Thursday night's meeting will be the first of regular conference of the group. Next gathering is scheduled for Elser airport hangar at 8 p. m. July 12.

At that time, adult members of the club will start a program of training, especially for youngsters of the community. This phase probably will be in conjunction with the already-established Air Scout program.

There also is a possibility that the club will purchase an airplane for further training.

Collins is an experienced flier. He served for a year with the Royal Canadian Airforce and for four years with the U. S. Airforce. The latter service included troop carrier and glider pilot and much of it was in combat zones.

Governor Signs School Aid Bill

COLUMBUS, June 29—Governor Lausche signed the controversial school bill into law today.

The measure increases state aid to schools in the coming biennium by about $26 million to a total of $207.5 million. The governor's only statement was:

"While the bill entails expenditure of a greater sum than I expected, I am nevertheless signing it."

The school lobby immediately announced that it will call off plans to submit an increase greater than that called for in the bill to the voters in November.

Ridgway Is Told To Negotiate For Truce With Reds

Details Of Instructions Kept Secret After President's Order

WASHINGTON, June 29—President Truman today authorized United Nations Commander Gen. Matthew Ridgway to negotiate a cease-fire in the field to end the year-old Korean war.

The presidential decision was announced at a special news conference by Deputy Defense Secretary Lovett. It was the first concrete indication that the Russian truce proposal is acceptable to the U. S. and the 15 other United Nations fighting in Korea.

Lovett announced that Ridgway's instructions have been drafted and are being transmitted to Tokyo as speedily as possible.

He replied with a "no comment" to questions of whether Ridgway was authorized to initiate truce talks. Thus, the mechanics of starting the discussions remained unexplained.

Lovett said that the instructions to Ridgway have the approval of the State Department, National Security Council and the Defense Department as well as the President.

IN TOKYO a spokesman for Ridgway said UN commander will have no comment on the proposal "until he has been able to carry out his instructions."

The spokesman, Col. George P. Welch, declined to say whether Ridgway's instructions have been received from Washington.

Welch, public relations officer for the Far East command, added that the nature of the instructions will not be disclosed in Tokyo.

No details of the instructions were given in Washington, but Lovett said they were "general" in nature. Presumably, Ridgway was authorized either to act for the UN personally or deputize UN Field Commander Lt. Gen. James A. Van Fleet to conduct the talks.

It is believed that the nature of the instructions to Ridgway also would empower him to select the time, place and circumstances of the truce talks.

In Flushing Meadow, N. Y., United Nations experts believe that Ridgway may move within 24 to 48 hours to obtain the cease-fire.

The belief was that Ridgway might do so with a direct radio broadcast calling on the North Korean and Chinese Communist field commanders to meet with him at some designated spot.

THERE WAS NO official confirmation of this. It was simply the expressed belief of persons high in UN councils that this may be the means of launching the cease-fire effort.

Informed Tokyo sources pointed out that there is no direct communication between the Communist armies in Korea and United Nations headquarters in Tokyo. Because of this, arrangements for any talks may be made in national capitals far removed from the Korean battlefield.

There was a general view within UN headquarters in Tokyo that if a cease-fire is to be negotiated, it will be important for the Communist negotiators to come to the UN side for talks.

This feeling was that if the war ends along the 38th Parallel without a clear-cut military victory for either side, the people of Asia will feel the side that sends its emissaries across the line will be the loser.

One official, in expressing this view, was asked about methods by which negotiations could be made and possible contacts. He said:

"The only contact at present is at the end of a fairly sharp, and sometimes rusty, bayonet."

Other sources said that arrangements for talks would be sent to Ridgway from Washington and the same arrangements would be relayed from Moscow to Korean Premier Kim Il-Sung.

Headquarters in Tokyo feels that Kim as prime minister and commander-in-chief of the North Korean armed forces would be the negotiator for the Communists.

The big question mark in the discussions is the attitude of the North Korean and Chinese Communist regimes. Russia, in its clarification of its truce proposal, professed ignorance of Red China's attitude toward the Soviet plan.

Official observers believe, however, that the two Oriental Communist regimes will follow the lead of the Soviet suggestion and cooperate in making contact with the UN spokesman in the field.

President Truman was meeting with his cabinet when Lovett made the announcement. Although the cabinet holds a regular Friday session in the White House, it was obvious that the truce proposal would be discussed.

Lovett said that he did not think an end of hostilities would affect the drafting of men for the armed services, proceeding at a rate of about 20,000 a month.

The deputy defense secretary coupled his announcement with a statement that the international outlook is dark.

HE SAID IT is quite possible that an end of hostilities in Korea would enable the Soviets to increase pressure elsewhere—an apparent reference to the critical situation in Iran, the fighting in Indo-China and the postwar tension in Europe.

Lovett said that the Defense Department is anxious to end Korean hostilities for one main reason—to end American casualties.

But he added that the department is appalled by the prospect that U. S. defenses may disintegrate as they did after World War II.

Any cease-fire terms arranged in the field, he said, will be subject to approval in Washington. They also presumably would be subject to the approval of the other United Nations.

Lovett spent most of a news conference warning against a possible letdown in the national defense program if a cease fire is arranged.

He said the Defense Department has much evidence of a longing and yearning on the part of the public for an end of hostilities.

Lovett said this evidence has appeared abruptly, in the form of letters and inquiries, and that he assumes there is bound to be a letdown when hostilities cease.

BUT HE SAID IT would be disastrous to let the Kremlin write the U. S. defense program. He described this as "putting on our overcoat when the Kremlin blows cold, and taking off our (Continued on Page Two)

Total Casualties Of War Set At 1,300,000 Men

WASHINGTON, June 29—Latest Defense Department figures indicated today that the Communists have suffered more than one million battle casualties while the Allies have suffered approximately 300,000 so far in the Korean war.

A new estimate placed Communist battle losses at 1,023,361, including 517,239 suffered by the Chinese Communists since they entered the war last November.

The latest official tally on American casualties in Korea shows 76,749 including 12,670 dead and 10,680 currently missing.

The total for the Allies can only be estimated as these have not been reported by the United Nations since April 1 when the figure was just under 230,000.

However, U. S. casualties have increased 28 percent since that time and if those of the other Allies have increased in proportion, the figure would now be approximately 300,000, including 170,000 South Koreans.

Senate OKs Control Bill

Beef Rollbacks To Be Banned

WASHINGTON, June 29—The Senate early today approved by a vote of 71 to 16 a watered-down controls bill which bans farm and beef price rollbacks and permits a 20 percent increase.

Formal passage of the measure, which the administration has labeled a threat to the whole anti-inflation program, came at 3:15 a. m. after a 15-hour session.

The final tally was delayed for almost an hour, however, when the Senate became embroiled in an angry squabble over whether Sens. Lehman, (D) N. Y., and Benton, (D) Conn., should be permitted to vote "present" instead of casting a pro or con vote.

The uproar reached its climax when Sen. Hickenlooper, (R) Iowa, declared that Benton was "in practical contempt of the Senate" for his refusal to cast a vote.

BENTON AND Lehman both voted "present" on the rollcall on the bill. Upon Hickenlooper's insistence, the Senate rules were invoked and the two men were ordered to give their reasons.

They explained that they felt the bill was bad and yet they did not want to vote against it and appear to be in favor of no controls.

But when the issue was put to a vote, the Senate rejected their explanations and ordered them to vote.

Parliamentarian Charles Watkins, who has been with the Senate since 1919, said he knew of no previous occasion on which a senator was forced to vote against his will, although senators have voted "present" a number of times.

The legislation denies President Truman virtually all of the additional powers he has requested and revoked some of those granted in the 1950 law.

The House plans to vote today on a simple 31-day extension. It appeared likely that the Senate will accept this stop-gap which also contains stringent price rollback provisions.

Chairman Maybank, (D) S. C., of the banking committee, said he plans to ask the House to adopt the Senate bill.

County's Tax Books Opened

Books for payment of real estate taxes for the last half of 1950 have been opened, according to Pickaway County Treasurer Robert Colville.

He said that the date set by the state for closing the books is July 20, but that they would remain open here until Aug. 20.

A total collection of about $450,000 is expected, he added. Collections for the first half of 1950 totaled $464,667.21.

U.S. To Have A-Powered Subs In '54, CNO Says

TOKYO, June 29—Adm. Forrest P. Sherman, Chief of Naval Operations, said today that the United States would have atomic-powered submarines operating "within two or three years."

The admiral told a news conference from which the representative of the Russian news agency Tass was ejected, that the year of war in Korea has given America and her allies time to greatly strengthen their military power.

He expressed confidence that the American people will continue to support a big rearmament program even after a cease-fire is arranged in Korea.

Tass Correspondent Eugeny Egorov was at the news conference before Sherman made his appearance, but left under protest after a naval officer told him:

"Sorry, you are not permitted here. It is a special briefing."

The admiral did not elaborate on his prediction that America expects to have atom-powered undersea craft in operation by 1954.

HE CONFIRMED long-standing estimates by other naval sources that the Russians have a total of about 80 submarines in Far Eastern waters.

He said he does not know whether the Chinese Communists have any but added:

"There are indications they may have one or more."

The naval chief said the Chinese Reds' chances of a successful invasion of Formosa have lessened considerably during the clothes when the Kremlin blows warm."

The purpose of the Defense Department, he said, is to carry through its program to build up the armed forces to 3.5 million men regardless of whether hostilities are ended.

Lovett described the international outlook as dark. He said it is quite possible that an end of hostilities in Korea would enable Moscow to increase pressure elsewhere—an apparent reference to Iran and Europe.

This development came as Russia's Jacob Malik hinted that the Soviets are awaiting a U. S. reply to the Kremlin on the Russian ceasefire proposal.

Malik was reliably reported to have thrown out his hint last night at a lavish dinner in New York at which he was host to the UN Security Council.

The Soviet delegate spoke privately with U. S. Ambassador Ernest Gross for 15 minutes.

He was reported to have indicated that Russia expects more talks between U. S. Ambassador Alan G. Kirk and Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko in Moscow.

The State Department announced yesterday that Gromyko suggested to Kirk in a meeting Wednesday that a military truce in Korea be negotiated on the field by the opposing commanders, including the Chinese Reds.

There were also these developments:

1. UN Secretary-General Trygve Lie asserted in New York that the United Command has full authority to proceed with a cease-fire.

2. Belief was expressed at Flushing Meadow that Russia is prepared to give the "North Korean command," including the Chinese Communist "volunteers," the nod to silence their guns and comply with subsequent instructions.

3. President Truman and Secretary of State Acheson conferred on both the Korean and Iranian situations for a half-hour at the White House yesterday.

4. Acheson again declared that the U. S. opposes entry of Red China into the UN.

5. Democrats and Republicans in Congress urged the U. S. to exercise extreme caution in its dealings with the Communists during any cease-fire negotiations.

Power Supply Is Increasing

The power emergency throughout the 23-county area served by the Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Co. was alleviated slightly Friday.

The company announced restoration to service of one of four generators damaged by fire last Friday at the Picway power station.

Company officials pointed out, however, that the generator's capacity of 30,000 kilowatts represented only one-fourth of the total 120,000 - kilowatt strength lost in the fire. The company said the emergency will continue until further notice.

Cincy Salesman Pinned Under Car In Accident

A 54-year-old Cincinnati salesman escaped with only minor injuries late Thursday when he was pinned beneath his auto following an auto crash in Williamsport.

Deputy Sheriff James Diltz said the mishap occurred at 4:15 p. m. Thursday at a traffic light at the intersection of Route 22 and Main street in Williamsport.

Diltz identified the Cincinnati man as Harold Eckard, who had been travelling west on Route 22 when the crash occurred.

Diltz said that Eckard later told him that he had not seen a traffic light upon approaching the intersection. The Eckard auto was struck flush in the left side by an auto driven north on Main street by Edward Gallaher, 19, of Williamsport.

The deputy said the Eckard auto turned over in the intersection, pinning the driver's head beneath the auto, and that wiring in the auto started to burn.

FOUR MEN standing nearby rushed to the auto and righted it to free Eckard's head. Diltz said Eckard's head luckily was caught in a pocket where the metal was pliable.

Williamsport firemen were summoned to extinguish the wiring fire in the already demolished car.

The Cincinnati salesman was treated in Berger hospital for head lacerations, lacerations of his right arm and hand and bruised knee and hip. Gallaher suffered cuts and bruises in the crash.

Two other persons were injured at about 8 p. m. Thursday at the intersection of Routes 56 and 104 about three miles west of Circleville.

Deputy Diltz said an auto operated north on Route 104 by Lloyd Snyder, 25, of Columbus, failed to halt for a stop sign at the intersection, crashing into an auto operated east on Route 56 by Charles Crosby, 30, of Circleville Route 2.

The deputy said the Snyder auto struck the right rear of the Crosby car, flipped over onto its side, skidded on the highway and then righted itself. The Crosby car swerved into a farm fence.

the driver, who suffered a back injury; and Wanda Tatman, 8, passenger in the Crosby auto, who was cut when a glass jar in the rear of the Crosby car broke.

Snyder later was fined $10 and costs in the court of Mayor Walter Heise in South Bloomfield for disregarding the stop sign.

Proposed Zoning Map On Display In City Hall

A map setting off proposed zones for Circleville took on some of the stature of a work of art Friday.

It was placed in a frame and hung on the wall in the first floor corridor of City Hall, occupying a space between the offices of the chief of police and the city auditor.

The map is part of a pending bill to zone Circleville into five districts. Previously, it was hung in the window of the city water department office, also in City Hall.

City council ordered the map hung in order that the public may see how properties would be affected by the zoning law.

Robert Greisheimer Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Greisheimer of 1310 South Pickaway street, has returned from an eight-month tour of duty with the U. S. Navy in waters off Korea.

Greisheimer arrived in the U. S. last Monday and returned to his home in Columbus, where his wife and son live. He will visit his parents in Circleville this weekend.

The Circleville man was called back into active duty with the Navy last November. Since then he has served aboard a communications ship between Japan and Korea as a radioman.

Greisheimer is to have a 20-day leave at home. When he returns to duty he is expected to be stationed on the west coast.

Circleville police were called Thursday to evict a dog from a house in the southeast of the city.

Thompson said the dog apparently had gotten into the house by opening an unhooked screen door. The animal, an uncollared and unlicensed white Spitz, kept the family at bay. The animal later was turned over to Humane Officer Ralph Wallace.

Park Meter Zones To Be Changed

Safety Chief Tells Of New System

Motorists in Circleville soon will no longer have to flip a coin to decide which parking meter to put it in.

Safety Director C. O. Leist said Thursday that street marks designating parking meter zones are to be changed so that there will "no longer be any confusion as to which zone each meter controls."

Leist explained that at present the parking zones are marked so that strangers sometimes use a meter in an adjacent zone by mistake.

"In the new marking we're going to try to give each motorist 22 feet of parking space," Leist said.

The safety director said that two lines are going to be painted on Court street from Mound to High streets, making four lanes of traffic.

"WE MIGHT DO the same thing on West Main street as far as Scioto street, and on East Main as far as Pickaway," Leist added.

He said the lines will be painted as an experiment in traffic control.

"We expect it to cut down on this business of motorists weaving back and forth from the center line to the curb as they drive through town," he explained, adding:

"Motorists who are looking for a place to park will be expected to stick to the outside lanes, through town will keep to the inside lanes."

"They also will be expected to take the inside lane when they intend to make a left turn."

Leist said the experiment will be "tried for awhile, and if people fall in line with it, we'll extend the lines."

PATIENCE AT AN END

IT IS NOT surprising that Marriner S. Eccles has now resigned as a member of the Federal Reserve Board. The mystery is why he didn't take this step long ago.

For years Eccles has been engaged in a running battle with the administration over financial policies and he never has been at pains to keep that fact from the public. He has even written a book in which he takes the President and Secretary of the Treasury Snyder to task for a political approach to some of the country's banking problems.

Significant of the extent of the right between Mr. Truman and Mr. Eccles is the President's letter accepting the resignation. It was coldly polite and, contrary to custom, expressed no regret whatever over the end of 17 years' excellent service to the government.

Indeed this was not the first time that Eccles was the victim of cavalier treatment at the President's hands. During the 1948 political campaign Mr. Truman demoted him, without explanation, from his position as chairman of the Federal Reserve Board—a post he had held for 12 years. Mr. Eccles, in his book just published, asserts he was demoted as the price demanded for supporting the President by the nation's largest chain banking system.

A more sensitive and less patient person would have regarded that a good time to have retired.

MORE OF THE SAME

COMPTROLLER General Warren put the case all too mildly when he told a Senate committee that there has been "an undoubted weakening of moral standards" in government and out of it.

General Vaughan and his deep freezers, John Maragon and his tie to the White House, the RFC employees and their shady performances—all these have already offered eloquent testimony to the way that the public trust has been violated.

How far this sordid business has penetrated into government there is no means of knowing. But enough has been revealed to provide proof that common honesty is no longer regarded as a virtue by many of those in the federal service.

Nor is it an adequate defense of the administration to say that nothing that has been done is actually illegal. There is such a thing as propriety and that is what has been violently abused.

Concern with a capital of only $1,200 received government contracts totalling 3 million. It is not revealed where it obtained the $1,200.

MARCH OF EVENTS

U. S. Spending Billion | History's Most Gigantic
On War Science Research | Mobilization of Brainpower
Special to Central Press

WASHINGTON—The United States government is now the world's largest employer of scientific talent. The tab for Uncle's scientific research for war during 1951 will reach the staggering total of one billion, 100 million dollars.

That is the most money ever spent on research in peacetime by any nation in the history of the world.

Mountains of money and a small army of technicians and scientists are required to keep us ahead in the most dramatic scientific race of all time—the race to stay ahead of the Iron Curtain countries in the life-and-death quest for new weapons.

This is one race we dare not lose. The price of developing new weapons is high, but the price of lagging behind Russia in the discovery, say, of atomic energy development or in biological warfare could be slavery.

Directing this gigantic mobilization of brainpower is the Research and Development board of the Department of Defense. It is the central nervous system which controls and co-ordinates the activities of hundreds of scientific agencies; in our government, in private industry, and in hundreds of colleges and universities.

Dr. Eric A. Walker, executive secretary of the Research and Development board, estimates that the Department of Defense and the Atomic Energy commission hire the services of about two-thirds of the nation's scientists. If the emergency continues, he says, the figure may climb to three-fourths.

The Research and Development board proper comprises some 400 of America's most distinguished scientists. It is divided into 15 committees, covering all phases of the defense research effort, such as atomic energy, biological warfare, electronics, guided missiles, medical sciences and fuels and lubricants.

These Days

A peace offensive in all countries has been conducted by Soviet Russia since 1945. The very term, peace offensive, is paradoxical. Who is opposed to peace? Who wants war? Actually, while Russia was most vigorous in its peace offensive, the United States let its military might dissipate, while Russia built a large and potent military machine.

It is important to bear this six years' campaign in mind in connection with Jacob Malik's cease-fire proposal. Throughout the Korean war, Russia has been circulating the "Stockholm Peace Appeal." It has been signed by millions of persons in all parts of the world, many of them innocents who love peace, hate war, and believe that because that is what they understand, it is what the men in the Kremlin mean.

Actually, what the Russians mean by peace is that the status quo, however, achieved, should be recognized and stabilized.

Let us apply that to Korea. North Korea is now occupied by Soviet China. The North Korean government has been defeated and destroyed by the United States. However, instead of the Republic of Korea (South Korea) occupying and unifying that country, Soviet China, operating out of the Manchurian sanctuary, took possession and has been engaged in a war with the United States. Soviet China's objective has nothing to do with Korea. Its objectives are:

1. To obtain a seat in the United Nations as the only recognized government of China;
2. To be permitted to occupy Formosa and to abolish the Nationalist government, headed by Chiang Kai-shek;
3. Succession to China's permanent seat on the Security Council of the United Nations;
4. The elimination of the United States from Asiatic affairs;
5. A seat at the conference for a treaty with Japan.

This the Russians call peace. Actually, it means the total defeat of the United States in Korea; the reduction of the Korean state to precisely the conditions that existed there on June 25, 1950; the strengthening of the Communist position in relationship to the future not only of Japan, but as the situation must work out in time under these terms, the Philippines.

Were this Russian peace accepted, the voice of the United States in the affairs of the world would be equal to that of Japan and Germany, the defeated countries. It would mean, for our country, total isolation. For few countries, under such circumstances, could afford to accept our friendship or proffer theirs to us.

Dean Acheson and President Truman have correctly resisted the temptation of rushing into Malik's arms, for while peace is a popular word and no one in the United States favors the Korean war, the peril is that the acceptance of Malik's cease-fire proposal, without knowing in advance what Russia actually proposes, might be utterly disastrous to this country.

CHAPTER FIFTEEN
TWO DAYS later Julie had a call from Cy. She took it on the upstairs extension. "Julie, I just can't imagine what came over you, darling. I'm sure that you were hasty in this matter," Cy said after their first greeting.

"I must tell you, Cy, that I've been on the verge of writing you for weeks. In fact, most of the summer, I'm sorry that I delayed it so long."

"I made you angry when I talked about coming to Seaside, dear. I'm terribly sorry. Can't you forgive me?"

"It isn't just that, Cy. Would it convince you if I told you I'd not been wearing your ring for a long, long time?"

"You haven't?" His voice was incredulous.

"Oh, Cy, I couldn't write you so coldly then, but you just didn't seem to be able to get down here so I could tell you."

"I cannot understand it, Julie, you've changed. I should have come down more often this summer."

"It wouldn't have helped, Cy. I made my decision soon after we were here last time. We're miles apart, have nothing in common."

"I'm flying down tomorrow, Julie. I can get away on an early plane. I'll charter one down to Bayport."

"Cy, I'm sorry, but I have an engagement."

"I see. Would it do any good if I canceled my convention plans and came down there instead? Of course, that's business."

Julie felt hysterical. "No, Cy. I won't be here. I'll be at Seaside, remember?"

"Yes! Of course I do! That's what started all this!"

Julie recoiled from the phone. It didn't even sound like Cy. She didn't want to argue with him. She said quietly, "If it's important that you see me, Cy, then pick the next weekend."

"May I see you next Monday evening?"

"If you wish, I'll hold it open." She didn't want to see him, however. It would be just another bitter hour, and she knew it wouldn't change her mind.

After a pause, he said, "Julie, you're too mature to be jealous of my work."

"That's why I'm so sure that our marriage wouldn't click. I'm not jealous of your work. I simply do not love you any more."

She was shaking. It seemed so strange to be saying all this over the telephone. She waited for his reply. He said, "Then it won't do any good to come down, will it?"

Copyright, 1950,

"No," she said firmly. "Good-bye, Cy."

"Good night, Julie."

His soft-spoken words sent her into a storm of weeping. She lay across her bed and thought of all the times that she'd turned down dates with students on the campus, waiting for Cy! Waiting for him to call, to write, to come. But he had taken her for granted.

She was glad that it was settled. She went to the telephone and called Jeff's number.

A cool, feminine voice answered, saying, "Jeffrey isn't home just now. Shall I have him call you?"

Startled, Julie said, "Thank you, no. I'll see him later."

The Miss America Pageant at Seaside was over. Betsey was runner-up for Miss Oregon when the final votes were taken. Both Julie and Betsey's mother gave signs of relief. A state meet was fine, but they didn't feel that a girl of Betsey's age and temperament should compete in the national contest at Atlantic City. Betsey, Julie was pleased to see, was grateful for the local honors, and seemed as much relieved as anyone not to go East.

Days passed swiftly, and presently it was September. She felt at ease in her work by now, and the tourist season at Bayport was practically over.

Julie had heard twice from Cy, but she had refused to answer his demanding letters.

It was late October before Julie met Mrs. Douglas. She received a formal little note, inviting her to tea on Sunday afternoon.

"Adam and Millie will be there, Julie," Jeffrey said when she told him. "I hope that you can come."

"Yes, of course, I'll be very happy to meet them all. I knew Millie only slightly. She probably doesn't remember me at all."

"Oh, but she does!" Jeff smiled. On Saturday Julie had her hair set, had a manicure, and anxiously checked over her wardrobe. She kept two dark dresses and a good black suit ready for instant use, as the demands on her social life had been much more frequent than she had anticipated. She was sure a black dress would be suitable for the occasion and decided on her older dress, for it was a little more simple than the newer one with its accented pleated skirt, and deep neckline.

"Dear, you'll look lovely. I hope you're not nervous," her mother said from the hall when Julie had called her in. "Yes, I think your choice of dresses is best. And your

Our barber looked at color TV and went back to his collection of sea shells.

He says he can't figure why the Supreme Court took this system to all others unless they just had their kimono pressed and were waiting for a sponsor.

We asked him if he didn't prefer color to black and white and he said: "Now ask me if I prefer blondes to brunettes and I will ask you 'which blonde?'"

The most disappointed viewers were the Godfrey fans: They had hoped to count and classify his freckles by shade, but they got a better look at his products.

In fact, judgment was that products come out better than people, especially if they don't move. That eliminates the cereals that leap, jump, snort and spell out happy birthday.

But that raises the interesting question of programs. Some people feel that we may bore easily with a half hour of a tire display.

Garden Club Members Wear Floral Millinery To Annual Family Picnic

Richard Hedges Talks On Roses

Several members of Circleville Garden Club arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Pugsley, Stoutsville road, Tuesday evening, wearing their own original millinery creations made of fresh flowers.

Winners in the hat contest, judged by men of the group, were Mrs. Lyman Bell, wearing a large white hat trimmed with cedar, shasta daisies and having a crown covered with larkspur. The hat was tied under the chin with a large bow of light green tulle. Her prize was another hat—a huge, straw, garden sun hat.

Mrs. Donald H. Watt was also a prize winner. Her hat was woven entirely of hemerocallis leaves and trimmed with pink calla lilies, madonna lilies and shasta daisies. As her prize, Mrs. Watt was awarded a set of garden tools.

The speaker also gave details of planting and care of many different varieties learned from his 30 years experience as a rose grower.

The Worth of the Individual

JESUS GAVE HELP AND HEALING TO ALL WHO CAME TO HIM

Scripture—Genesis 1:26-27; Matthew 8:1-4; 12:9-13; 13:1-6; 12:14; 1 Peter 1:17-19.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

IN GENESIS we read of man's creation. "God said, Let us make man in our image, after our likeness; and let them have dominion over the fish of the sea, and over the fowl of the air, and over the cattle, and over all the earth, and over everything that creepeth upon the earth."

"So God created man in His own image, in the image of God created He him; male and female created He them."

Isn't it odd that up through the ages man has not thought of his brother men as created in the image of the Almighty? If he had, how could he have treated him as he has?

And if all men realized that they are made in the image of God, how could they permit themselves to be so cruel, so unjust, so tyrannical to their brothers?

Are humans just beginning to realize their inheritance and to demand that they (every individual) should be treated with respect, love, brotherhood?

Jesus considered people worthy of help and healing. Every one who came to Him in faith and sincerity He aided—the beggar at the roadside, the rich man. Little children were His friends and He used a child to illustrate the humble spirit that men needed to achieve the kingdom of heaven.

Our first story that shows the spirit of Jesus is when a poor leper came to Him and begged to be cured. No one else would touch a person so afflicted. They would be afraid that they would become infected and "unclean." Jesus, the Christ, did not fear.

When the man, probably kneeling before Him, said: "Lord, if Thou wilt, Thou canst make me clean." "Jesus put forth His hand, and touched him, saying, I will; be thou clean. And immediately his leprosy was cleansed."

Jesus told the man to tell no one, but to show himself to the priest, and to offer the gift Moses commanded.

On the Sabbath Jesus went into the synagogue, and there was a man with a withered hand. Thinking to accuse Him of sacrilege, the Pharisees asked Jesus if it was lawful to heal on the Sabbath.

What man of them, asked Jesus, owning a sheep, would not lift it out of a pit into which it had fallen, even if it was the Sabbath? "How much then is a man better than a sheep? Wherefore it is lawful to do well on the Sabbath days."

Jesus had the man stretch forth his arm and when he did so, the Lord healed it.

The disciples came to Jesus to ask, "Who is the greatest in the kingdom of heaven?" seeking special favors for themselves. Jesus gave them a lesson then and there. He called a little child and put him among them. Then He said:

"Verily I say unto you, except ye be converted, and become as little children, ye shall not enter into the kingdom of heaven."

"Whosoever therefore shall humble himself as this little child, the same is greatest in the kingdom of heaven," and He went on to say that he who received such a little child in His name, received Him, and who betide one who should offend such a little one.

In a recent lesson we had the parable of the man who had many sheep, and one went astray. The owner left the ninety and nine, and searched and searched until he found the lost one. Then he carried it home and gave a feast to his friends to celebrate the return of the lost lamb.

"He rejoiceth more of that sheep than of the ninety and nine which went not astray."

"Even so it is not the will of your Father which is in heaven, that one of these little ones should perish."

God, our Father made all of us and we all share the good things of the earth—or at least, such should be our heritage. When we do not share with others; when we are proud and treat them as if we thought they were not as good as we, we should remember Jesus in His brief sojourn on earth. He respected people for what they were. He "ate with publicans and sinners." He talked to the woman of Samaria and taught her His gospel.

Why cannot we consider each person we meet as also made in God's image? Like little children, why are we not humble in spirit so that we too may inherit the kingdom of heaven. And why do we not act while we are here on earth as if we ARE made in God's image?

ty the Columbus field office also serves Franklin, Fairfield, Licking, Fayette, Madison and Ross counties.

The gain in the number of beneficiaries in the Columbus field office area under the expanded old-age and survivors insurance program of Social Security is about 32 percent over the number at the end of 1949.

At the present rate, insurance payments Pickaway County residents total roughly $156,000 a year.

The large increase in both the number and amount of benefits being paid reflects the first six months of operation under the 1950 amendments, liberalized eligibility requirements, and benefit amounts, Darby said.

Figures released by Darby show that 17,956 persons in the area served by the Columbus field office were receiving old-age and survivors insurance payments at the rate of nearly $8 million a year.

Army Halts Use Of Word 'GI'

NEW YORK, June 29 — The Army says the term "GI" is out henceforth. The correct term to be used by Army personnel is "soldier."

These instructions were issued to all Army public relations officers, but it was emphasized it was not intended to curb newspaper use of the word GI. It was intended to keep information of officers from slipping into the slang term.

The order said "make no further use of the slang expression GI. All references to a man of the Army should identify him primarily as a soldier. Webster's dictionary defines a soldier as 'skilled warrior' and never before in history has a soldier so richly deserved this definition."

Traffic Lights Get 'Vacation'

Traffic lights at the intersections of Mound and Clinton, Washington and Walnut and Pickaway and High streets are being removed for the Summer, according to Safety Director C. O. Leist.

City council ordered the signals shut off during the months schools are closed as an economy measure.

Rugged Motorcycle Test To Be Held Here Sunday

Professional motorcycle lists will invade Pickaway County Sunday to perform in one of the most rugged of all cycle tests, a hillclimb.

Some 30 professionals, including seven national champs, are expected to participate in the rugged test Sunday afternoon in Devil's Backbone, just east of Circleville.

Sponsored by the Circleville Gypsy Roamers MC club, the event will be staged at an almost vertical slope in the basin of the proposed new Pickaway County Lake, located just back of the McCoy farm on Route 22.

The hill is a 90-foot slope jutting upward at an angle of more than 60 degrees and with a clearing only about 20 feet wide. Sunday's event, scheduled to get underway at about 2 p. m., will be the second contest of its kind ever staged in the county.

A SIMILAR event was held at the same hill two years ago. Only eight riders were able to reach the crest of the hill during the competition.

Two kinds of motorcycles will be employed during the contest, an "A" type wheel with 74-cubic inch piston displacement and a "B" type with 45 cubic inch displacement.

Contestants in the gruelling test will be shooting for prize money totalling $350 in the match.

The local motorcycle club has invited youngsters of the Pickaway County Children's Home to attend the thrill show, while guaranteeing shade for the spectators and refreshment booths.

Joe Gee of Columbus, American Motorcycle Association referee, will officiate during the hillclimb. Gee will test the hill at 9 a. m. Sunday to determine whether it is in condition for the event.

An electric timer will be employed to judge the winners of the event. The cyclist who tops the slope in the shortest time will win, although it is no one for the hill the one who progressed the furthest will win.

All contestants will start from a standstill position at the foot of the hill and are permitted only a short take-off run.

Winner of the "B" contest will be eligible to compete later against the "A" class riders for top honors.

None of the local cycle club members will participate in the contest, although they will serve as ushers and help in removing stranded cycles and cyclists from the hill.

OFFICERS OF THE Circleville club are Paul Eitel, president; Elmer Robison, vice-president; Bob Willis, secretary; Kenneth Riegel, treasurer; Sam Myers, referee; Jim Cockrell, road captain and assistant reporter; Charlotte Robison, reporter; and Clyde Leist, clerk of course.

Other members of the club are Leona Riegel, Tom Brannon, Louise Myers, Helen Greenlee, Bill Clark, Kenny Baldwin, Mary Cockrell and John Brown.

Ken Reid Hurls 2nd No-Hitter In Three Days

Softball Pitcher Kenneth Reid of Monroe Township twirled his second no-hit victory within three days Thursday night in Mt. Sterling.

Hurling for an All Star team, made up of Pickaway County players, Reid Thursday kept Dayton Merchants swatters hitless in an exhibition, tilt in Mt. Sterling for a 7-0 victory.

The fireball hurler earlier this week delivered his first no-hit victory of the season while twirling for Top Hat.

Reid pitched Top Hat to a no-hit 3-0 victory over Belmont A. C. of Columbus Tuesday night in Ted Lewis Park, fanning 11 of the Belmonters. In Thursday's encounter, Reid whiffed 10 of the Dayton batsmen.

Harmon Leading The Way In PGA Championship

OAKMONT, Pa., June 29—The $45,000 Professional Golfers' Association tournament settled down at Oakmont Country Club today to a horrendous five-day program of match play.

Sixty-four of the nation's outstanding play-for-pay golfers entered today's first round, the survivors among an original field of 140 that was whittled down by a gruelling 36-hole qualifier.

Leading the way into the man-for-man matches was veteran Claude Harmon, the 1948 Masters' champion.

Harmon won a dramatic three-way playoff on the third extra hole after he had tied the year's top money winner, Lloyd Mangrum, and stocky Pete Cooper for medalist honors with a 142 total.

Cooper went out when the other pair birdied the second over-time hole, and Harmon ran up a 35-foot approach putt within 18 inches of the pin to defeat the iron-nerved Mangrum on the next green with a par four.

The playoff brought Harmon a $250 bonus, possession of the Alex Smith Trophy and a seeded position at the top of the lower match play bracket.

OSU COACH HEARD HERE

You Can't Stress Winning Too Much, Hayes Declares

"You cannot place too much emphasis on winning."

That thesis was advanced here Thursday night by Woody Hayes, new head coach of Ohio State university as he addressed about 225 persons at a dinner meeting in his honor.

Sponsored by Circleville Rotary Club, the meeting had as special guests members of the local Kiwanis and Lions Clubs.

Flying straight into the face of arguments that present-day football coaches stress too much the importance of winning every game, Hayes declared:

"You must put the emphasis on winning. Otherwise you would be creating a dishonest boy. You would do this by sending him into the game and telling him that he was there to just have a good time. He would not be asked to practice teamwork or to work hard the full 60 minutes of play—he would come out of the game a dishonest boy."

SPEAKING OF winning games, Hayes confessed that he was at a disadvantage. He explained:

"Each afternoon I have in one of my classes a man whom I am supposed to tell how to win games. And he has a record of 26 victories out of the last 27 games. He is your own coach, Steve Brudzinski." And then Hayes added:

"I think that winning 26 out of 27 might even satisfy some people around Columbus."

But Hayes declared that he considered landing the head coach's job at Ohio State to be a "great challenge." He explained:

"I believe that Ohio's high schools produce the finest football players of any state in the Union. That is the reason why so many out-of-state college come into Ohio and steal our players."

Hayes apparently is confident of the showing he will make during the coming grid season at Ohio State. He declared:

"I want no sympathy. I don't like for a fellow to come up to me and wish me a weak 'good luck.' I'd rather have a fellow say: 'I didn't want you for the job, but I'm back of you just the same.'"

Hayes delved into the over-all college education picture when he declared:

"I TELL ALL my college presidents that I feel that football is the most important subject a boy can take. But I hasten to add that a boy must make sure that he gets all his education—gets a well-balanced education."

And Hayes advised:

"Whenever you meet one of your Circleville players on the street next football season, compliment him on the run, or block, or tackle he made last game. But then don't fail to ask him what course he is taking and how he is making out in his grades. He must not be allowed to think football alone."

Boyd Stout acted as toastmaster for the dinner meeting which was held in the First EUB service center. He introduced Mrs. Hayes who, in turn, introduced her husband. Hayes, incidentally is a first cousin to Mrs. Larry Best of Circleville.

As a concluding part of the program, the diners heard Patrolman Chester H. Crumpler of the Columbus city police department, juvenile division.

Gifted with a rich basso profundo voice, Crumpler was received well, giving four numbers and an encore. He had been heard earlier in the day at the regular Rotary Club meeting, probably will be returned to Circleville for future entertainments.

County Youngsters Chalk Up Half Million Days Of School

Interesting Data Given On System

Expenditure List Also Outlined

Pickaway County school boys and girls attended more than a half million days of school last year.

According to an annual statistical report compiled by County Superintendent George D. McDowell, county youngsters attended an aggregate total of 589,325.5 days of school last year.

The report, compiled by Superintendent McDowell from individual reports from each of the 17 county schools, shows that elementary youngsters attended 465,441 days of school while high school boys and girls attended 123,884.5 days.

In addition, an average of 3,503 county boys and girls attended each day of school during the last school year, 2,770 in the elementary grades one through eight and 733 in high school grades nine through 12.

BUT, DURING the year, the youngsters were absent from classes an aggregate total of 29,410.5 days. Absence figures show that elementary youngsters missed 21,798 days of school while high schoolers missed 7,612.5 days.

This year's figures, however, are better than last year's, when a total of 35,623 days of absence were recorded.

Average daily membership in the 17 county schools during the year was 3,667 youngsters, 2,889 in the elementary grades and 778 in high school.

The average daily membership figure is used as a basis for the state foundation aid monies which the county system will receive next year.

Through the course of the last school year, a net total of 3,702 boys and girls were enrolled in the county system.

At the end of the school year, the actual count was 3,663 boys and girls. Last year's actual enrollment was only 3,590.

Of the net total 3,702 youngsters, 1,913 were boys and 1,789 were girls.

A TOTAL OF 174 teachers were employed during the year to instruct the youngsters, 53 men teachers and 121 women teachers.

McDowell said the average elementary teacher salary for the year in the county system was $2,177.61, while the average high school teacher pay was $2,769.42. The superintendent explained that salaries of superintendents and principals were included in the high school pay average.

During the year, a total of 304 youngsters, 138 boys and 166 girls, were graduated into high school, while 158 youngsters, 78 boys and 80 girls, were graduated from high school.

A total of 69 school buses were in operation during the last year in the county, transporting an average of 2,918 pupils to and from school each day.

McDowell explained that 14 of the buses are owned by private contractors and 54 are owned entirely by the school. The one other bus is retained under an old system where the driver owns the chassis and the school owns the body.

Five new buses were purchased for the system during the year.

A total of 29 separate buildings were in use in the county system last year with 211 rooms in use for instructional purposes.

OF THE 29 school buildings, 17 were occupied by elementary schools while 11 of the 17 also contained high schools.

Three of the separate elementary schools, Madison, Duval and South Bloomfield, were three-teacher schools while two of them were four-teacher schools. The remaining 12 were taught by five teachers or more each.

Finishing out the report, McDowell said that 17 libraries were in operation in the county system last year with a total of 23,817 volumes available to the youngsters.

He said 7,911 volumes were for elementary youngsters, 7,700 volumes for junior high and 8,206 for high school.

In addition, the libraries added a total of 843 new volumes this year at a cost of $2,410.54. A total of 17 part-time librarians supervised the libraries.

20-Year Tally Gives Area 169 Days For Crops

Pickaway County farmers are reasonably safe from killing frosts if they plant crops after April 28, according to a report by the division of water of the Ohio Department of Natural Resources.

The date is an average one, arrived at over a 20-year period ending in 1943.

The report also shows that farmers can expect 169 days between the average dates of the last killing frost in the Spring and the first in the Fall.

Average date of the first killing frost in the Fall in Pickaway County is given as Oct. 14.

"The length of the growing season is commonly defined as the number of days between the date of the last killing frost in the Spring to the date of the first killing frost in the Fall," the report says, continuing:

THE GROWING season, therefore, varies in length, and the time of beginning and ending, from year to year. In general, the growing season decreases in length from south to north across the state. The occurrence of frost in local areas is greatly affected by local culture and terrain.

"Differences in elevation and the presence of cities and large bodies of water have considerable effect on the occurrence of frost locally.

New Jersey's largest inland body of water is Lake Hopatcong, nine miles long.

1949 Accident Basis For $1,136 Law Suit Here

A suit seeking $1,136.76 damages has been filed in Pickaway County common pleas court by Edward P. Hoffman of Athens against Charles Sams of Circleville Route 4.

The suit grew out of a two-car collision on Route 50 near Athens in December, 1949. Hoffman's petition claims both cars were going east, and that the accident took place when Sams in the lead car swung into a driveway.

Plaintiff claims the defendant was negligent in that he suddenly decreased his speed without signaling, turned from a direct course without taking care to see if it could be done safely without a signal, and failed to yield the right of way to an overtaking vehicle after plaintiff had given the proper signal.
